“Just so, your light must shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your heavenly father.”

Just months before his high school graduation, a young man was in a tragic accident and was paralyzed from the waist down. But he was determined that he would make it to his graduation and after many demanding sessions of physical therapy, he was able to graduate with his class. In fact, he was the salutatorian of his class. From his wheelchair, he began his salutatorian address by thanking the many individuals who helped him, encouraged him, and never gave up on him, especially his parents. As he looked back upon the past few months, he said that these people, by their support and their prayers, became a power within him that pushed him to never give up and to hope once again. We might ask ourselves, who throughout our lives became a power within me and when did I become a power within another? In a world of darkness, the goodness, kindness, and love of faithful Christians allow light to shine brightly. Indeed, as the old adage reminds us, a candle loses nothing by lighting another candle.

Difficult Scripture Passages

“The book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham. Abraham became the father of Isaac, Isaac the father of Jacob, Jacob the father of Judah and his brothers. Judah became the father of Perez and Zerah, whose mother was Tamar . . .” [Matthew 1:1-17]

In the Advent and Christmas seasons, Catholics must endure the genealogies of Jesus Christ, which are introduced into the cycles of readings at the Holy Mass. Why does the Church bother us with these long lists of names; to hear them is rather boring. For the priest or deacon who must read them, they can be a challenge, because of the difficulty in pronouncing these names. So, what is the point of reading these genealogies at Mass?

The Church considers the genealogies of Jesus Christ, found in the Gospels of Saint Matthew and Saint Luke, important because they are more than a list of names. They are really a theological discourse on the person and mission of Jesus Christ. The genealogy of Saint Matthew presents the coming of Jesus as the climax of Israel's history, showing God's providential plan from Abraham until the birth of Jesus Christ. Saint Matthew thus begins the genealogy of Jesus with Abraham, to emphasize Jesus' bond with the people of Israel. Saint Luke traces the descent of Jesus beyond Israel to Adam, to stress that Jesus came not only as the savior of the Jewish people, but as the savior of all people. Christ's blood was shed for the remission of sins of every son and daughter of Adam and Eve.

The genealogies also portray an interesting assortment of personages. One would assume that the family history of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, would be a listing of only the holiest of persons. But this is hardly the case. In fact, the genealogy of Jesus includes a prostitute (Rahab), an adulterer and adulteress (King David and Bathsheba . . . Uriah's wife), a seductress (Tamar), and one who sacrificed to pagan idols (King Solomon). Talk about skeletons in the family closet! Christians may be scandalized by the family lineage of Jesus, or it could instill hope in the hearts of sinners. Despite their sinfulness, the individuals listed above continued the blessed lineage of the Messiah. They played a key role in God's plan of salvation and were instruments of God's Providence. Despite our sins, we must realize that God calls us as well to continue His plan of salvation in our own. Despite our human frailties, we are called to lead others to faith in Jesus Christ. The genealogy of Jesus Christ does not end with His birth. It carries on with us, who continue to call others to be sons and daughters of our loving Savior.

And a Good Time Was Had by All: Thank you to everyone who played a role in making Saint Ann's Knoephla Soup & Sausage Dinner such a great success last Sunday. Thank you to those individuals who had a role in preparing the meal and know that everything was delicious; everyone enjoyed the tasty and hearty meal. Thank you to everyone who worked at the booths for the Chinese auction, the raffle, and the meal. Thank you to everyone who stayed afterwards for the cleanup, including the many pots and pans in the kitchen. Thank you to everyone who so generously donated foodstuffs, Chinese auction baskets, and prizes for the raffle tickets. Lastly, thank you to everyone who came to support our parish and to enjoy a delicious meal and fellowship. Parish dinners are an opportunity for people to sit down and to appreciate a lost art: conversation with one's family and friends. Hopefully, next year we can have more involvement in this large undertaking, especially in preparing the knoephla soup, which should not just be the domain of the Christian Mothers, but other parishioners as well. We can also keep making tweaks here and there so that our parish dinner may continue to be an immense success. I like the idea of the leftover kuchen going to Father Gary, but I will humbly leave that up to the planning committee. [I wonder if they can be bribed?]

Padre's Picks: You are welcome to Fr. Gary's home, the rectory in Glen UllinF, for the next movie night on Friday February 13th, at 7:00 P.M. That evening, Father Gary will be showing The Scarlet & the Black, a powerful movie about one Catholic prelate's ability to save lives in Rome during Nazi occupation, but more importantly, about the ability to save one life from eternal loss. I look forward to welcoming you to my home that evening for a great movie, snacks and beverages, and an opportunity to discuss the movie upon its completion. We will see you at the movies!

On the Lighter Side, Things Jesus Never Said: "The Son of Man will give you a Mercedes-Benz and that big house that the prosperity Gospel preachers promised you."

A Christian Point to Ponder: "When I consider the cross of Christ, how can anything that I do be considered a sacrifice." [Amy Carmichael]
